The Miracle Chapel

Dover's Chapel of St Edmund of Abingdon

Near to the Maison Dieu in Dover, the monks of the Priory of St Martin established a cemetery for the poor with its own small chapel. Consecrated on 30 March 1253 by Bishop Richard of Chichester, it was dedicated to St Edmund.

Dover's Chapel of St Edmund of Abingdon

It could be said that this little chapel is perhaps miraculous. Probably built very early in 1253 or late 1252, it physically survived the Reformation and Dissolution of the Monasteries ordered by Henry VIII. Its sanctity having been lost for more than 400 years, it is recorded that during that passage of time it fell into use as a store and smithy. Remarkably, it then failed destruction when very close buildings were destroyed by enemy action in WWII, and finally it escaped demolition in the 1960's by a council, which did not realise its significance, eager on widening Dover's town high street.

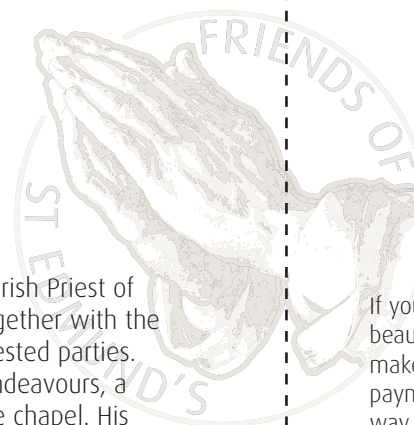

Today, by the efforts of many, the chapel stands complete and in full public view, and is testimony to the few individuals who over a number of decades, strove against many odds to identify and restore it to regular ecclesiastical use. The restoration was substantially achieved by the determination of

Rev Father Terence E Tanner the Parish Priest of St Paul's RC church in the town, together with the financial help of a number of interested parties. In recognition of Father Tanner's endeavours, a memorial plaque is mounted in the chapel. His ashes are also interred close to the altar. It is regularly used for Holy Mass, usually on alternate Saturdays at 10.00 am when all are welcome

This chapel is held in trust, and is not financially supported by any religious denomination or secular body. After all these years of neglect this chapel needs friends; people who appreciate its uniqueness and its value to our heritage. We therefore invite you to become a Friend of St Edmund's and join with us in assisting in the maintenance and upkeep of this fascinatingly small but holy place.
